Address: 3022 County Road 2010, Glen Rose, TX 76043

Phone: (254) 898-4268

Details

Fossil Rim has some beautiful animals, but the scenic views are no slouch either. Within the facility's 1,800 acres, there are cabins at Foothills Safari Camp. Just outside the two-acre, fenced area, there are exotic animals in every direction. Guests will enjoy the peace and tranquility of Mother Nature, and at certain times of year, they may even hear a wolf howl or two. After a complimentary hot breakfast, perhaps take a guided tour and learn all about Fossil Rim's animal conservation efforts. Admission tickets to drive through in your own vehicle are included and could be used on the day of arrival instead of the morning.

The Lodge at Fossil Rim

Address: 3022 County Road 2010, Glen Rose, TX 76043

Phone: (254) 898-4268

Details

The Lodge was originally the “ranch house” of the man – Tom Mantzel – who began Fossil Rim from square one in 1973. It features five unique guest rooms, each with a different animal theme. There is a full-size kitchen and dining area, a cathedral-style living room, and a massive stone fireplace. A wall of glass wraps around the front of the building, opening onto a wood-and-cobblestone deck that overlooks a wildlife grazing area. Animals like waterbuck, addax, sable, fallow deer, and wild turkeys appear near The Lodge as they migrate across the 420-acre Main Pasture. The panoramic view of the landscape is a sight for sore eyes, as this area is far removed from daily guest traffic. On the second floor, there is a common area to relax. When guests from more than one family stay at The Lodge at the same time, social distancing precautions will be taken. In the morning, a complimentary hot breakfast is provided, and then heading out on a guided tour to learn all about Fossil Rim’s animal conservation programs could be a great call. Admission tickets to drive through in your own vehicle are included and could be used on the day of arrival instead of the morning.
